

Mother and Four Children Perish In House Fire

POLLARD, Ark. (AP) — A mother and four of her children died in a flaming farm house near this northeast Arkansas town early today.

The small frame residence burned to the ground before fire fighting equipment could be summoned.

Dead were Mrs. Maxine Frederick, 27; Judy Ann, 9; Jack, 6; James Edward, 3; and Dale Gene, 15 months.

Another child, 11-year-old Lonie, was spending the night with a neighbor. He and the father, Jack Frederick, who was in St. Louis, were the only survivors of the family.

Clay County Coroner Herman Russell of Piggott said a man passing near the house noticed the fire about 1:30 a.m. today. Russell quoted the man as saying that the house was engulfed in flame.

Neighbor notified authorities but the house was destroyed in a short time. The body of Mrs. Frederick was found near the remains of the front door. Bodies of the children were in charred beds.

Russell ruled the deaths accidental. Origin of the fire was not determined.

The father, a laborer, worked in St. Louis. He returned after being notified of the tragedy.

The house was located about three miles west of Pollard.

Bodies of the victims were taken to a funeral home at Piggott.

Heroism Witnessed by 1,000 Persons

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Approximately 1,000 persons witnessed an act of heroism which may bring a 12-year-old boy scolded for his recognition.

Pat Moore, with his bare hands, smothered flames which were quickly spreading across a small girl's dress.

Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde A. Moore Jr., was an altar boy Sunday during ceremonies at the Holy Souls Catholic Church here, when 7-year-old Marsha Trollette's dress was set afire accidentally by an altar candle.

The boy suffered minor burns on his hands putting out the fire, but the girl escaped injury.

Scout Executive Robert Williams, crediting young Moore with possibly saving the girl's life, said yesterday he would recommend the youngster for a national scout leadership award.

President Says Foreign Aid Cut Will Be Tragic

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower told Republican congressional leaders today he shudders to think of the impact abroad if further cuts are made in the administration's foreign aid program.

The leaders quoted Eisenhower as expressing that view at his weekly meeting with them. The conference was held as the House approached showdown voting on the aid measure.

House GOP Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts said he told Eisenhower he looks for the House to approve the bill in pretty much the form it came out of the foreign affairs committee.

As approved by that group, the bill authorizes $3,603,000,000 for mutual security — $339 millions below Eisenhower's request.

Martin said he looks for a determined effort to cut the authorization further, but he predicted administration supporters generally will be able to turn back such moves.

"The President made it very clear," Martin said, "that he already shudders at the idea of any further cuts. He shudders to think how he could meet the world situation if there are any further cuts."

Works on Big Project He Fought

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) — Mad Bear Anderson, leader of its fight to keep the Niagara power project off the Tuscawara Indian reservation, was helping build the project today.

Anderson is working as a laborer for Merrill Chapman and Scott, the largest contractor on the $205,000,000 project. He put in his first Niagara gorge about a mile from the reservation.

The 32-year-old Tuscawara leader of the young braves in the tribe, headed the battle to keep surveys for the state power authority off the land. He called off the campaign last week when federal agents threatened contempt of court citations.

The state has appropriated 1,343 acres of the Tuscawara reservation for part of the project. The Indians have won a federal court order temporarily keeping the state from taking the land, pending a final decision. The order, however, permits surveying.

Mad Bear said Monday night he had buried the hatchet with the state power authority, but added he was not sure how deep it can be buried again.

RESIGNATION DEMANDED — Government troops have clashed with anti-government rioters in the streets of Beirut, Lebanon, for the fourth straight day as opposition leaders handed the pro-Western government of President Camille Chamoun an ultimatum demanding immediate resignation. Missile Plant in California Is Struck POMONA, Calif. (AP) — The International Assn. of Machinists struck the Convair guided missile plant here early today. Production personnel left their jobs and picket lines were established.

The action affects 1,777 workers of a total of 4,700 hourly employees the company said.

Convair said no further negotiations were scheduled.

The development came after IAM refused to accept terms of a company offer approved Sunday night by Convair employees in two San Diego, Calif., plants.

The Pomona plant produces Terrier and Hawk missiles for the Navy. Convair's San Diego plants, employing some 31,000 workers, produce the Atlas missile for the Air Force, F102 jet fighters and airline transports.

Convair President J. V. Naish said in San Diego that the Pomona facility would continue production.

The company's wage offer was a 17 to 27 cent hourly raise. The pay scale under the old contract ranged from $1.20 to $2.75.

Elsewhere in the aircraft and missile industry, two major contract talks remain to be negotiated.

Talks are still in progress for Douglas Aircraft Co. workers in Long Beach, Calif., Tulsa, Okla., Charlotte, N.C., Santa Monica and El Segundo, Calif.

Also under negotiation is a new contract for Lockheed's missile division, affecting production workers at the company's Van Nuys, Palo Alto and Sunnyvale, Calif., plants.

On another strike scene, at the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. Marietta, Ga., plant negotiations traded proposals for settlement. A federal mediator said he was hopeful of progress. About 2,000 members of IAM have been on strike six days. State troopers and local authorities are on duty to prevent a recurrence of violence that flared on picket lines Monday.

Nixon Escapes Rioters in Caracas; U.S. Office Ransacked in Algeria

Crowds Demand France to Hold Onto Algeria

ALGIERS (AP) — The U. S. Information Agency office was ransacked today by demonstrators demanding that France keep a firm hold on rebellious Algeria.

The demonstrators reflected rising anti-American feeling in Algeria. Many French here believe the United States would like to see Algeria independent of French rule.

The demonstrations broke into the USIA office in mid-afternoon. One group of demonstrators smashed in the front. Others smashed the outside main door on the office, which is on the second floor of an office and apartment building.

Don Davis of Great Falls, Mont., was in the office at the time but was unhurt.

An American source said that the demonstrators included a number of war veterans, who are among the most outspoken right wingers in Algeria.

The USIA office was almost demolished. Furniture was smashed and the books thrown out of the windows and torn up in the streets.

An American official in the office was unhurt.

Two policemen were on duty near the office but did not interfere.

The crowd was demanding that France keep a firm hold on rebellious Algeria.

The angry crowd then headed up the street to the U.S. Consulate about a mile away. The Consulate was the scene of a bomb attack several weeks ago.

The demonstrations in the capital of Algeria were staged by students, right wing groups and other protesting the vote of the National Assembly in Paris on the investiture of Premier-designate Pierre Pflimlin.

Leaflets were thrown about the streets demanding that if Pflimlin became premier the French settlers in Algeria should use all means to keep his representatives out of Algeria.

Although Pflimlin's program for Algeria is almost identical with that of his predecessors, right wing parties claim Pflimlin is weakening France's determination to put down the rebellion in Algeria.

The USIA office is in the center of the city. It had been damaged before by a bomb attack. The U.S. consulate in Algiers, some distance from the city's center, was also the scene of a recent bomb attack. A bomb placed at the entrance blew out a door and injured a Moslem cleaning woman.

Today's demonstrations came as the city's activity was brought to a standstill by a total strike. The Moslem workers stayed home and Moslem shopkeepers closed. The streets of the Arab Casbah were empty of Arabs.

The demonstration had been called for much later in the afternoon but the nervous and angry demonstrators poured into the streets hours earlier, singing the French national anthem and chanting "Algeria is French."

Sees Leveling Off of U.S. Recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — William M. Martin, Federal Reserve Board chairman, told Senators today "There are some hopeful indicators" the recession is leveling off but they are not yet conclusive.

"There is this process of leveling out," Martin said at another point. "If we can consolidate our gains it could lead to a substantial spring uprise." But he said emphatically "that is as far as I would go" toward a forecast now.

Martin expressed these views in testimony to the Senate Banking subcommittee at a public hearing on a dozen different bills dealing with the government's annual multi-billion dollar housing activities.

Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.), the subcommittee chairman, asked whether Martin sees a leveling off of the business slump.

"I don't think there are any conclusive indicators now," Martin replied, declining to make flat predictions.

There are some hopeful indicators that we are having a leveling off process," the Board chairman continued, adding "The rate of decline (the business slump) has been slower for some time."

But he said part of this may be a seasonal matter and "We have to be very cautious about ascribing too much optimism" in reading such trends.

"We must be very careful about being over optimistic or over cautious," he said.

Violence in Lebanon Brings Heavy Damage

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Rioters smashed shops, blocked the streets with flaming barricades and chased pedestrians from the sidewalks today in violent protest against Lebanon's pro-Western government.

Demonstrators roamed Beirut for the second day, following the end of an all-night curfew. Organized bands were determined to force a general strike and bring business to a standstill.

They smashed windows and wrecked shops that defied their order to close. A few people who went out in downtown streets were scattered by the roving bands.

Fervent political maneuvering as under way in an effort to restore order. The political opposition for the bloodshed and violence, blaming subversive elements working in the ranks of peaceful demonstrators.

The reported death toll since Saturday afternoon has risen to 13.

Friends Take Over Program for Skelton

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Friends will take over Red Skelton's television show tonight a few hours after his son's funeral.

For the Skelton family, the services for 9-year-old Richard mark the tragic end of a long ordeal. The boy died of leukemia Saturday night after a 15-month bout with the dread blood disease.

Although there were filmed Skelton shows available, the comedian asked the CBS-TV network and his sponsors to leave him off the air entirely tonight.

Show business pals Milton Berle, Donald O'Connor, Sidney Miller, Vincent Price and others quickly agreed to go on in his place.

The funeral will be at Forest Lawn's Church of the Reformation. Actor William Lundigan will read the eulogy written by author Gene Fowler. Both are close family friends.

The family has asked that in lieu of flowers, friends send contributions to UCLA Medical Research Department of Leukemia. Richard died at the UCLA Medical Center.

Applauds TV Spot, 'Verdict Is Yours'

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP) — It would be interesting to hear the verdict of the night-time viewing audience if CBS-TV could find a regular night ly spot for "The Verdict Is Yours." We believe the viewing jury would applaud this excellent program vigorously.
"The Verdict Is Yours" (Monday-Fridays, 8:30 p. m. EDT) is a novel television or any other place. It is a series of courtroom dramas without scripts. Nobody knows how a case will end, until a jury selected from the audience renders its decision.
Its writers conceive a dramatic situation, delineate the background of the characters involved, and give a general notion of the type of examination and cross-examination each will undergo. From there on it's up to the actors.
"It calls for a special type of talent in an actor," says Eugene Burr, producer of the program. "We've rejected some excellent actors and actresses simply because they lacked the ability to ad lib. They must, to a large degree, create the characters themselves."
The other day we were smuggled into a casting session for "The Fisher Case," which will run for a week beginning May 21. "The Fisher Case" involves a yellow accused of leaving the scene of an auto accident—but, believe us, that's only the beginning of the troubles in store for him.

While Burr and his staff study the candidate intently, an actual lawyer, Robert Simon, grills the witness.
Actor A for the role of Fisher acted guiltily as homemade sin under Simon's questioning. It was, obviously, the way he conceived of the character. He writhed in torment and wore a haunted expression that made us suffer with him.

Actress B for the same role acted pure as the driven snow. Here, surely, was a young fellow you'd welcome in the family. He drove back hard at the attorney and departed with the grave mien of a man going to church.

Actress A for the role of Susan Asbury—a gorgeous "hussy" type—was as pretty as a picture. She was also, unfortunately, nearly as lifeless.

Actress B for the role was a slender, attractive blonde with a vivid imagination who rocked the examining attorney a couple of times with baffling details. The one trouble was that she simply seemed too nice a girl.

Actress C was a most convincing lush blonde.

U. S. to Ask Full Data on Arms Proposal

By JOHN SCALI

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States plans to ask Soviet Premier Khrushchev to spell out the exact conditions he has in mind for technical disarmament talks, he reports he is ready to begin.

With Khrushchev agreeing to the talks he once rejected, President Eisenhower was reported anxious to begin the discussions quickly—perhaps late this month.

But informed authorities said, Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles both want Khrushchev to explain what he meant when he said such talks "should be completed in the shortest term, agreed upon before hand."

Khrushchev attached this condition in a letter to Eisenhower Saturday in which he unexpectedly agreed to the White House demand for such technical talks. They would deal with means of detecting violations of any agreement to halt nuclear weapons tests.

Khrushchev, in agreeing, however, expressed what he called "serious doubts" that such talks were necessary.

This Khrushchev attitude, plus the fulfillment over the deadline the Soviet leader apparently wants to impose, accounted for the cautious welcome Eisenhower and Dulles gave to the new twist in Soviet policy.

Dulles, returning Monday after a 10-day European trip, described Khrushchev's letter as representing "a little progress." He met afterward with Eisenhower or at the White House to discuss the development and report on the Atlantic Pact conference in Copenhagen which charted new Western defense moves.

The State Department began consulting allied governments to learn their views on how to handle the newest pre-summit maneuver.

Friends Hire Attorney for Leggett

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Attorney Kenneth C. Coffelt said yesterday he had been hired by relatives and friends of Emmett Earl Leggett to appeal the condemned slayer's case to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Coffelt said he would fly to Washington, probably today, to file the appeal.

Leggett, whose death sentence twice was upheld by the Arkansas Supreme Court, is scheduled to die in the Arkansas electric chair Friday for the 1955 strangulation slaying of 14-year-old Joe King near Jacksonville.

Leggett's trial lawyer, John W. Bailey, who filed notice with the state court last week that he planned to appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court, could not be reached in comment on whether he still was acting as the 21-year-old killer's counsel.

Five students from Memphis State drove to Little Rock Saturday, declaring they were flouting against capital punishment and saying they intended to appeal to Gov. Orval Faubus to commute Leggett's sentence to life imprisonment.

Faubus who previously had said he would not grant further postponements, was out of town and the students failed to reach him or any of his administrative assistants.

The students — Henry Sutton, 26, of Jackson, Tenn.; David

Few teen-agers either blossom into beauties or start attracting boys just like that. It takes care and good grooming to make a beauty and it takes good looks and understanding to attract the boys. This girl is going about it the right way. Knowing that most boys loathe loud make-up she avoids it. She sticks to a touch of tinted liquid make-up (left), light powder and a bit of lipstick for her appearances in public.

STILL GOING STRONG AT 132—Swami Govind Bharti, better known in Kathmandu, Nepal, as Swami Shivapuri, claims to be 132 years old. The spry Swami, who attributes his long life to a vegetarian diet, lots of mental rest, and little physical labor, says he has traveled all over the world, including visits to Russia, England and the United States. He sleeps only two hours a day and subsists on a pint and a half of fresh cow's milk a day.

DOROTHY DIX

You Have Your Own Faults, Man Correct Them, Wife'll Respond

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm the victim of a wife who is 100 per cent unreasonable and unappreciative. She has threatened to leave me because I never tell her I love her. I never compliment her and she claims I'm a tightwad. As a result she says I no longer love her. This is a monstrous lie. I adore her. However, my parents were practical people, not given to fancy talk, and I'm the same. And I'm not a tightwad. I give my wife good food, enough clothes and a comfortable home. What more could any woman want? I do love her and can't bear the thought of losing her. How can I make her into the right kind of wife?

ANDRE

Dear Dorothy Dix: How can a person overcome the terrible habit of blushing? Whenever I receive a compliment I feel my cheeks turning red.

Dear Rosie: Don't let the kids tease you; a blush is charming.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your leaflet, "The Way To A Boy's Heart." Will you also send a leaflet on how to keep him when he's gone? I've been reading your leaflet has been sent. However, I leave to your feminine ingenuity the problem of how to keep him after you've got him. A girl has to do something on her own.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have been married two years and am beginning to wonder what I got into. Although I am a very neat person, I can't satisfy my husband's passion for neatness. According to him, the house must at all times look as though nobody lived in it. He makes an inspection even before his hat and coat come off. On the rare occasions when someone comes in and sits on a dining room chair, he examines the rung of the chair as soon as the guest leaves to see if it has been scratched. I have no family and yet dread to bring children into this exacting and regimented home.

SO UNHAPPY
Dear Dorothy Dix: Your husband should be in a museum, not a home. In fact, at the rate he's going you'll never be able to call the place you live in a home. Cleanliness and orderliness are only "next to Godliness" — not ahead of it. Your husband is depriving you of a home; don't let him deprive you of children. Maybe a child in the house will make him reevaluate his trucky ways.

Landis, 18, of Reston, Ark.; Edwin Ulmer, 20, of Memphis; Robert Harvey, 28, of Memphis and J. C. Rijds, 28, of Middlebourne, W. Va. — killed Leggett at Tucker Prison Farm and reported that the prisoner had expressed appreciation of their interest.

They then returned to Memphis. Sutton said he didn't know if they would make another attempt to see Faubus.

During the long litigation, Faubus granted several reprieves pending one come of mental examinations.

Violence in

Saturday rose to at least 21. Security forces Monday night shot two persons for failing to halt.

The rigid curfew imposed a long night of calm after Monday's riots. The mobs in Beirut burned a U. S. Information Agency library, battled security forces, closed shops, burned buildings, set up roadblocks and generally stopped transportation.

Rioting and shooting also broke out again Monday in the North Lebanese port of Tripoli, where another U. S. library was wrecked Saturday and 11 persons were killed in fighting between rioters and police. Also in North Lebanon, two unidentified men Monday blew up a pipeline carrying oil from Iraq to Tripoli.

The disturbances were triggered by the assassination last week in Beirut of a newspaper publisher who supported U. A. R. President Nasser's goal of gathering into his domain all Arab nations, including the half-Moslem, half-Christian Lebanon.

Five Lebanese customs officials were killed in an attack near the Syrian border and five more deaths were reported in today's fighting in Beirut.

This pushed the nation's death toll, since the fighting started Saturday, to at least 36.

Associated Press correspondent Wilton Wynn and his wife were stoned but not injured on their way into Beirut from the airport.

Harris Sees 'Eye-opening' in Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Owen Harris (D-Ark.) today predicted House hearings on television cases will develop some eye-opening information, probably next week.

Harris heads a special subcommittee which is investigating the Federal Communications Commission and other government regulatory agencies.

Harris said that the committee, probably next week, will go into cases where there were contests for television licenses and expertise representation — meaning contacts with FCC members outside the regular procedure.

There will be some very interesting information developed, Harris said, adding that it "probably will open the eyes of a lot of people as to whether the law has been followed," particularly by applicants.

Harris remark came in an open hearing. The subcommittee had gathered to hear from FCC Chairman John C. Dierfer on the matter of FCC actions in relation to patents.

Harris said the committee would look into particular cases on which its staff has developed information.

Red Continues Decline in Louisiana

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — The Red River, its crest pushing to Alexandria today to bring high waters to central Louisiana, continued dropping in northern portions of the state as Gov. Earl Long sought federal aid for critical regions.

Long yesterday asked President Eisenhower to declare a major disaster area in flooded north and central sections and threatened south central portions.

The governor requested an initial allocation of $300,000 to supplement state and local funds which, he said, have been expended in excess of two million dollars since the start of the flood threat May 1.

Weathermen said yesterday the river would reach about 40 feet, eight feet above flood stage, at Alexandria within 24 hours.

The river crested at points north of Alexandria during the weekend of last week. However, officials said the river would not be in its banks again at Coushatta until the end of the week and not until next week at Grand Isle and Alexandria.

The Ouachita River at Monroe climbed to 46.7 feet yesterday with a crest of 49 feet forecast for Sunday.

Hundreds of families in the region surrounding Monroe were cut off from the city yesterday. Meanwhile the rising river forced closure of the new cheniere dam road. Its blockage meant a 20-40 mile detour for people who work in the city.

Telephone Exchange Owner Dies

DUMAS, Ark. (AP) — C. T. (Ted) Adair, 42, owner of Lincoln-Deane Telephone Co. and vice president of the Arkansas Telephone Assn., died here yesterday after an illness of several months.

His firm maintained exchanges at Dumas, Star City, Gould and Tipton.

Survivors include his widow and two daughters.

but he would not name the causes at this time.

Earlier this year the subcommittee held weeks of public hearings on the grant of TV channel 10 in Miami.

Admits Letter to College President

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Frank Smith of Clarksville, Ind., said yesterday he had one of 24 anonymous letters critical of Dr. Winslow S. Drummond, president of The College of the Ozarks at Clarksville.

Smith, a 197 graduate of the Presbyterian-supported school, made the claim in affidavits mailed to the Arkansas Gazette and the Fort Smith Southwest American.

J. T. Patterson, Ozarks business manager, said last week that the letter, mailed to members of the school's Board of Trustees, figured in the dismissal of Charles Hamilton, a political science professor.

Drummond last month barred Hamilton from his classes. The instructor later was fired by the board.

Dodgers Slump to Bottom of National Loop

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There were suggestions during the spring that the Dodgers might not devastate the National League this season.

Still, about the last place you'd expect to find them is in last place.

But there they are — for the first time since July 2, 1948. And Manager Walt Alton could promise no swift ascent after the latest humiliation — 12-3 loss to the San Francisco Giants Monday night. "If a couple of guys get in a slump," Alton said, "you can take them out. You can't take out the whole team."

Alton, who likes to smile but found it a difficult expression to achieve Monday night, was asked whether the ex-Brooklyn club might not be trying too hard to please its new audience.

"Playing at home? No, I don't think that has much to do with it. If we play away like we played here, we'll get beat just as bad."

The conversation turned to Dan Drysdale, the young pitcher who was supposed to win 20 games this year but who suffered his sixth defeat in seven decisions Monday night.

"I don't know what to say about Drysdale," Alton said. "But I do know he doesn't have quite as much stuff as he did last year. I don't think his control of his curve is as good."

After the feeble promise of his early outings, will Drysdale be removed from the regular pitching rotation.

"If I had somebody that was hot," Alton said, "I'd go with him. But I don't."

Matter of FACT

Mercury, a silver-white metallic element sometimes called "quicksilver," has long been used by men. Before the time of written history, cinnabar—mercury ore combined with sulphur—was used to make red pigments. Very early, mercury was used for a bright coating on ornaments and for medical purposes. The alchemists tried many ways of mixing mercury with other metals to make gold.

Faubus Takes Issue With Gov. Collins

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus took issue yesterday with statements of Gov. Leroy Collins about the Little Rock integration crisis last fall.

Collins in a Look magazine article said Faubus and President Eisenhower share blame for last September's racial violence outside Central High School, which had been ordered integrated by a federal judge.

He blamed the Arkansas governor for calling out the National Guard "to prevent enforcement of a judicial order," and the President for not anticipating the explosiveness of the situation and moving early to head it off.

Faubus said Collins was "going too far."

There is a lot Collins and the general public do not know about the crisis, the Arkansas governor said.

Faubus refused to concede that he had helped precipitate the crisis by ordering the state troops to prevent integration of Central High.

But he agreed with Collins' criticism of the U. S. Supreme Court and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"A Little Rock crisis somewhere was almost inevitable," Collins wrote, "because the courts are now placed in the unusual, and I believe untenable, position of acting in executive and legislative, as well as judicial capacities."

He said that the NAACP decides where and when to desegregate.

State Head of NAACP, Ike in Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. L. C. Bates of Little Rock, Arkansas president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, met yesterday with President Eisenhower here.

Mrs. Bates, who played a prominent role in the NAACP's fight for admission of Negro students to Little Rock Central High School, shook hands with the President and told him, "The children of Little Rock send you their love."

Nine Negro students were admitted to Central last Sept. 25 under protection of federal troops ordered to Little Rock by Eisenhower.

Eight of them still attend, guarded by federalized Arkansas National Guardsmen.

Mrs. Bates met Eisenhower at a meeting of the National Newspaper Publishers Assn., a Negro group, which presented Eisenhower with a citation for his action in the Little Rock integration crisis.

Two Charged in Counterfeiting

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. James M. Mullen of Fort Smith face trial on federal charges of possessing and passing counterfeit money here.

Mullen, 37, and his wife Mary G., 33, were arraigned yesterday before U. S. Commissioner Lee Miles and jailed in lieu of bonds.

Miles fixed Mullen's bond at $25,000 and Mrs. Mullen's at $10,000.

They were arrested late Saturday after a liquor store operator reported an attempt to pass a bogus $20 bill.

Land Acquired for a Park Site

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Neil Boninger of Little Rock, chairman of the Great River National Park Commission, said yesterday most of the land needed for the proposed park has been acquired. He said the commission had obtained nearly 12,000 acres of the Civil War battle site at a cost of $150,000.

The story: Milo March plans to fly to the Mexican Republic to search for a manuscript, insured for $75,000 which is missing after the author, a Mexican exile, was allegedly kidnapped. Already shots have been taken at March by a mysterious figure called El Nariz.

CHAPTER VIII

I went out and took a cab across town to the Epitaph. It took several tries to locate Merry Melany. She hadn't gone back to Connecticut yet, but was still at the hotel.

"Milo," she said when she came on the phone, "are you calling to say you've changed your mind?"

"No," I said. "I've called to ask a favor."

"Anything," she said.

"You," I said, "have suddenly taken an interest in early Americana. You have heard that there is a genuine Christopher Columbus manuscript somewhere in the Mexican Republic, and you have commissioned me to go find it."

"What would I do with it if you found it?"

"Probably hang it in the bathroom, just to show how rich you are," I said. "Or maybe give it to a museum. But don't worry. I won't find it. I just want that as an excuse for being there -- not that anyone will really believe it."

"Okay," she said. "I wish you'd tell me what's going on."

"Nothing for your very delicate ears," I told her. "Look honey, this isn't a game like one of your companies opening a new oil well. Somebody may get hurt and it might even be me. If something happens that I call you from down there, just remember that the phone is probably tapped."

"All right, Milo," she said. "I'll take my cues from you."

"Good girl. And thanks honey."

Afterwards I dialed the Lillian Bonding & Fidelity Company and talked to Ben Brackett, for whom I'd worked a couple of times. His firm was riding for $180,000 loss on the Moreno case.

"How would you like a fighting chance to find out where the money went for a hundred a day, no expenses?" I asked him. "I have a job related to this."

There was a moment of silence. "Okay," he said. "It's a deal. But with a limit of 15 days on it."

I stopped by Intercontinental and picked up the extra expense money. It made a comfortably warm spot in my pocket. Then I went by Pan American and got my ticket for the next day. I went on back to my office.

"I spent an hour or so making sure that everything was cleaned up in the office. I wasn't sure how long I'd be gone. I used a dictaphone to get off some letters and then called the typing service and told them to pick up the tape. I checked with the phone service to make sure they had everything straight and that anything other than routine calls should be routed to my attorney."

"I stood up when I was aware that there was a shadow against the frosted glass in the door. I would see it was a shadowy shadow. It was going to be a pity. I thought, if I had to turn down a case like that --

"I cleared my throat but nothing happened. I turned the light off and on. Same result. I walked halfway across to the door, whistling loud enough to be heard on the other side. Finally I got some action. The shadow moved and there was a knock on the door. "Come in," I said.

The door opened and she came in. It was worth waiting for. She was small and built. She had black hair, falling almost to her shoulders, and expressive black eyes. She was, to sum it up, quite a dish.

"Senior Milo March?" she asked. She had a soft Spanish accent.

I admitted that was who I was. She was carrying a large, shiny black handbag. She opened it and peered in. She reached inside and when her hand again appeared it was holding a pastel blue gun. So help me, Real pastel blue. While maybe that made it look like a bandaid toy, the muzzle looked lethal and it was pointing straight at me.

"I have come to kill you," she said.

A pretty girl doesn't walk into your office every day and threaten to kill you. It's a novelty. Despite all the novelty, the girl seemed quite serious in what she was saying and the gun was steady. Too steady.

"Why?" It seemed like a reasonable question.

"You go to Puerto Torredo tomorrow?" she asked.

"Yes."

"That is why I kill you," she sounded as if she thought it explained everything.

"New tourist policy?"

"Do not make the jokes," she said. "I am going to kill you. You deserve it."

"Possibly," I admitted. "Do you mind if I have a last cigarette? I will smoke most carefully."

She hesitated as though uncertain. "All right," she said, "but you must make it quickly."

I took a cigarette and lit it. I looked at her over the edge of it. "It is not often that a man is killed; it is even less often it is done by a beautiful girl. Now remind me of something I once read. Do you know the name Juan Ruiz?"

"Senior!" She sounded as if she were about to crack.

"Sorry," I said. "I thought perhaps you liked poetry."

I took another drag on the cigarette. Then, holding it between my thumb and middle finger, I flicked it into her open handbag. (To Be Continued)

Curfew Results in Interracial Fight

JACKSONVILLE, Ark. (AP) — An interracial gang fight here has resulted in rigid enforcement of a curfew ordinance, Police Chief Olsen Kennedy said yesterday.

Eight whites and seven Negroes were arrested after the fight last Monday, Kennedy said he does not know how it started.

All 15 boys appeared before Municipal Judge Reed Williamson last Friday.

Williamson fined two whites $50 each for inciting a riot. He ordered another white boy held to the grand jury for allegedly firing a shotgun into the home of a Negro.

The other youths received suspended fines.

Kennedy said police are enforcing the "anti-loitering" ordinance of 1935 which in effect clamps a teen-age curfew on this town 11 o'clock every night.

Service Pay Bill Okayed by House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House adopted without debate today compromise legislation to give most servicemen a pay raise of a cost of $576,438,000.

The measure now goes to the Senate. It is expected to be approved there quickly and to be signed by President Eisenhower in time for the higher pay scales to be effective June 1.

Dr. Wassell, War Hero, Succumbs

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. Corydon M. Wassell, the modest medical missionary whose heroism during World War II was the theme of a novel and motion picture, died in his apartment here of a heart attack today. He was 74.

He had been ill for some time. As a lieutenant commander in World War II Wassell evacuated 12 badly wounded men under heavy Japanese gunfire, saving them from certain capture.

He won the Navy Cross for the deed. It also brought him a Presidential Citation from the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt who had been arrested since stricter enforcement took effect last Thursday, Kennedy said.

Iran Girl Attacked by Young Girls

NEW YORK (AP) — The 16-year-old daughter of Iran's chief United Nations delegate was cut on the hand with a penknife in an attack by two teen-age girls in Bronx Park.

The girl's dress was ripped in the attack, which occurred Saturday evening, police disclosed Sunday night.

Police said Frieda Abdoh was walking with a sister, Masti, 12, in the park while their father, Dr. Dalal Abdoh, and his wife sat in a restaurant.

Frieda and Masti decided to walk along a brook and climb a hill. Frieda told police that as she helped Masti up the steep incline

The name marionette comes from Italy. During early Italian Christmas celebrations, small nativity figures including the Christ Child and the Mother Mary, were made to move by strings. These puppets were called Marionettes, or little Marys. Now the term, changed to the French word marionette, is used for all puppets animated by strings from above.

Polio Vaccine Sales Bring Indictments

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Rogers today announced the indictment of five big drug companies on charges of antitrust violations in the sale of polio vaccine to federal, state and local governments.

He said the indictment was returned by a federal grand jury at Trenton, N.J.

The firms were named as: Eli Lilly & Co., Indianapolis; Allied Laboratories, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.; American Home Products Corp., New York City; Merck & Co., Rahway, N. J., and Packe, Davis & Co., Detroit.

The companies were described as the sole producers of polio vaccine in this country from the time the success of the Salk formula was announced in April 1955.

They were accused of conspiring to fix prices and eliminate competition in sales of the vaccine to governmental agencies which were large purchasers of the vaccine.

The indictment said the total production of polio vaccine through the end of 1957 was slightly more than 503 million cubic centimeters having a value of 125 million dollars.

Of this total, about 104 million cc. were sold to public authorities. The bulk of these purchases were under the Polio Vaccine Act of 1953. This act provided for allocation of $33,600,000 of federal funds to the states for vaccination programs.

Ass. Atty. Gen. Victor R. Hansen, in charge of the antitrust division, said in a statement: "The indictment returned today charges that vaccine producers have combined to submit uniform bids to public agencies, to adopt noncompetitive terms and conditions of sale, and to establish uniform pricing methods. Price-fixing activities involving such a significant industry and such substantial sales require criminal action by the department."

The antitrust laws provide fines up to $50,000 in the case of violations by corporations. The five drug companies were charged with violating two sections of the Sherman Antitrust Act.

Reorganization Bill May Be Acceptable
